Parents are too likely to blame schools for the educational limitations of their children.

[21286053]

Parents should be involved with their children's education at home , not in school .

[21286055]

– “ Community involvement ” is , an even worse idea .

[21286057]

Here , the experience of New York City is decisive .

[21 286058]

Locally elected school boards , especially in our larger cities , become the prey of ambitious , generally corrupt , and invariably demagogic local politicians or would-be politicians .

[21286059]

New York is in the process of trying to disengage itself from a 20-year-old commitment to this system of school governance, even as Chicago and other cities are moving to institute it.

[21286060]

- In most states, increasing expenditures on education, in our current circumstances, will probably make things worse, not better.

[21286061]

The reason is simple : Education takes place in the classroom , where the influence of money is minimal .

[21286062]

Decades of educational research tell us unequivocally that even smaller classes have zero effect on the academic performance of the pupils - though they may sometimes be desirable for other reasons .

[21286063]

The new money flows into the already top-heavy administrative structure , which buses itself piling more and more paper work on the teachers .

[21286065]

That is the way the system works .

[21286066]

– Students should move up the educational ladder as their academic potential allows .

[21286068]

This means "tracking," whose main purpose is less to permit the gifted youngsters to flourish (though that is clearly desirable) than to ensure that the less gifted get the necessary grounding for further study or for entering the modern world of work.
