

Document 1937

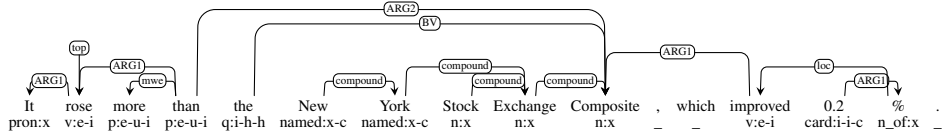

[21937001]

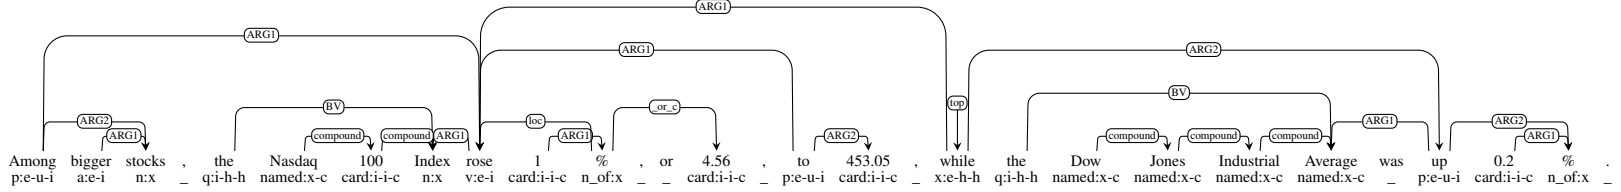

[21937002]

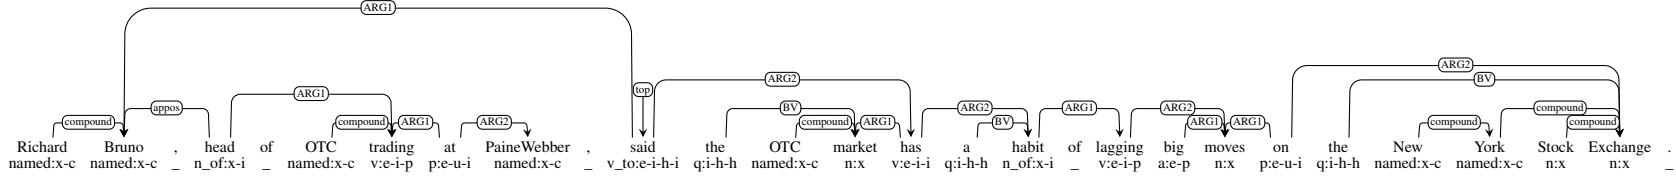

[21937003]

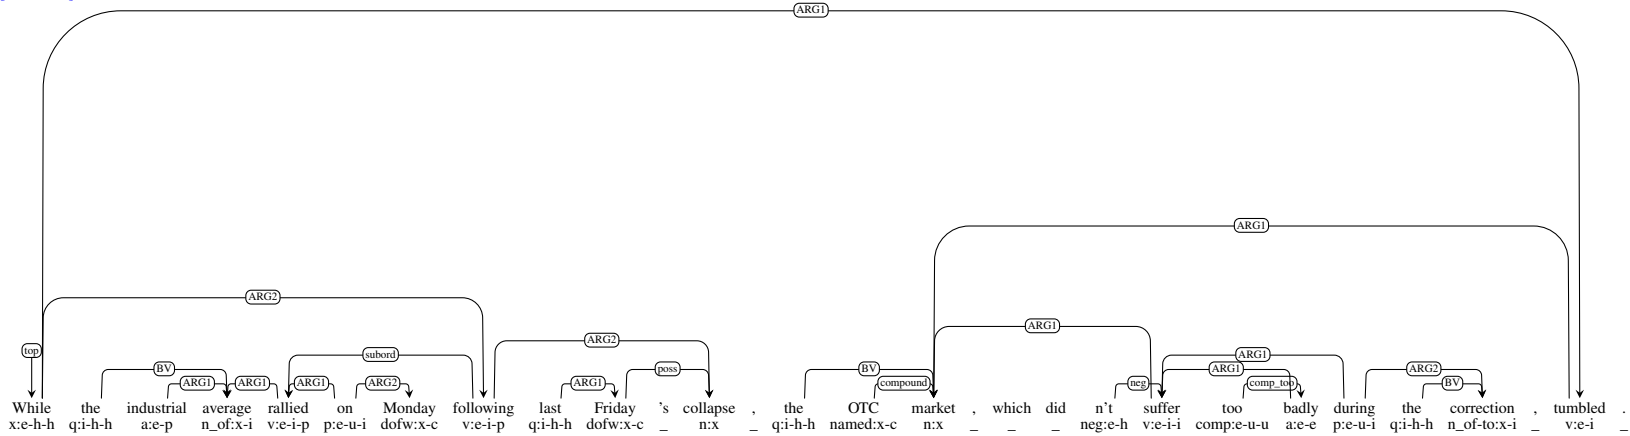

[21937004]

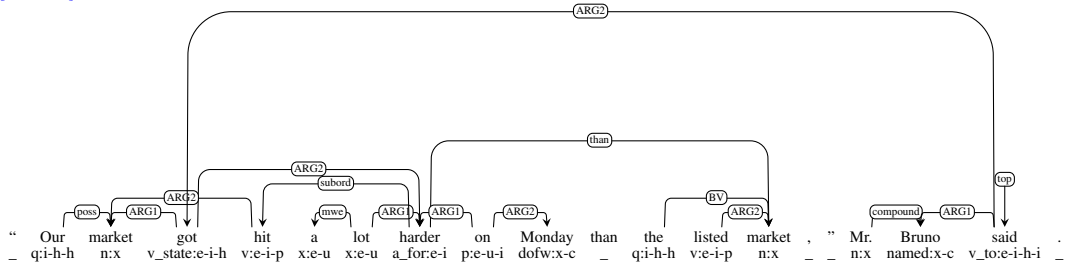

[21937005]

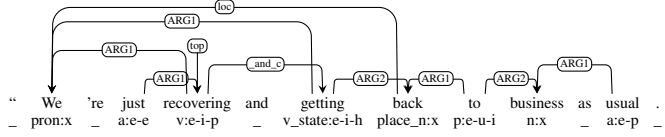

[21937006]

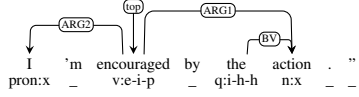

[21937007]

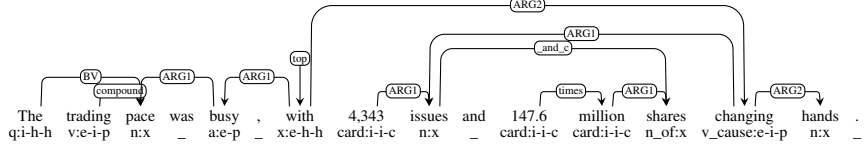

[21937008]

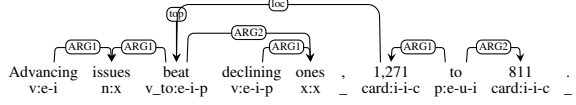

[21937009]

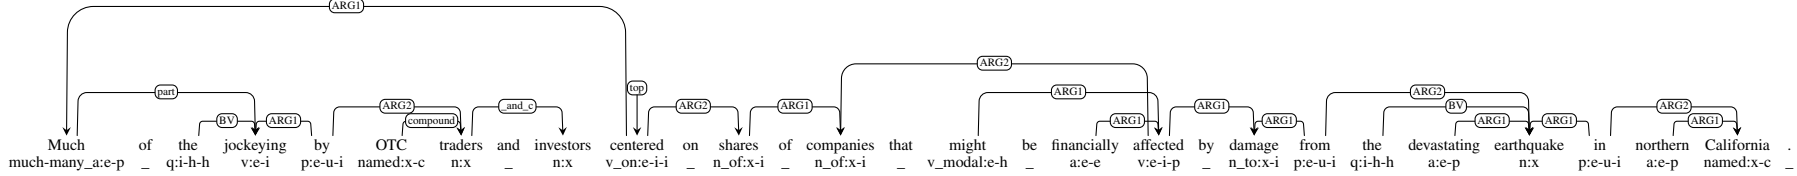

[21937010]

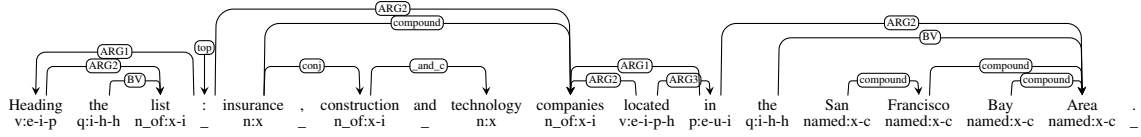

[21937011]

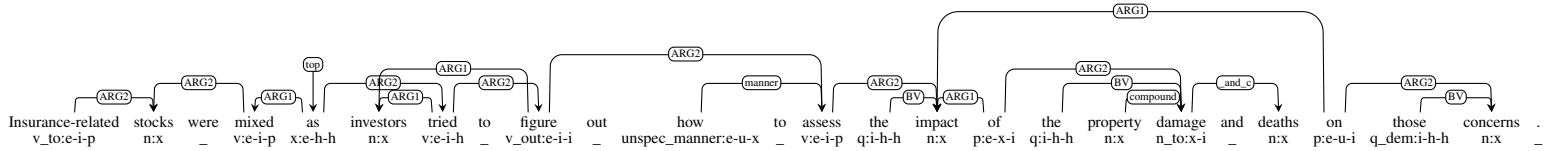

[21937012]

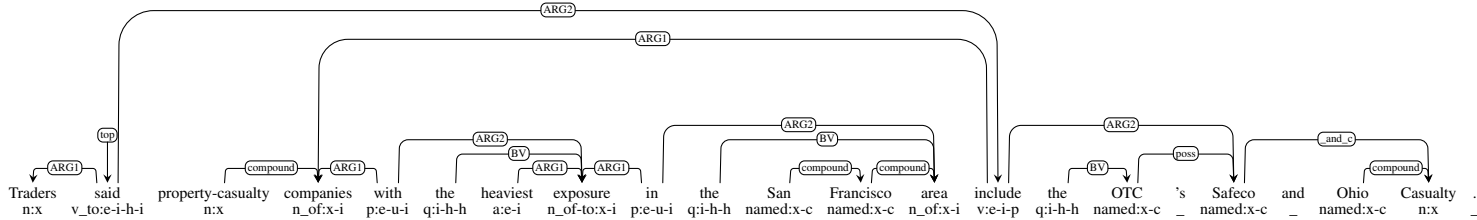

[21937014]

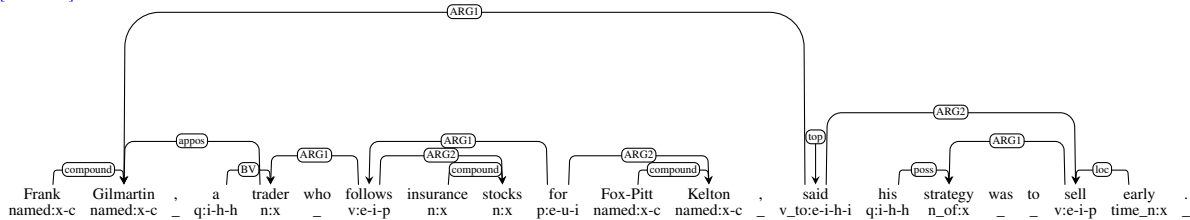

[21937015]

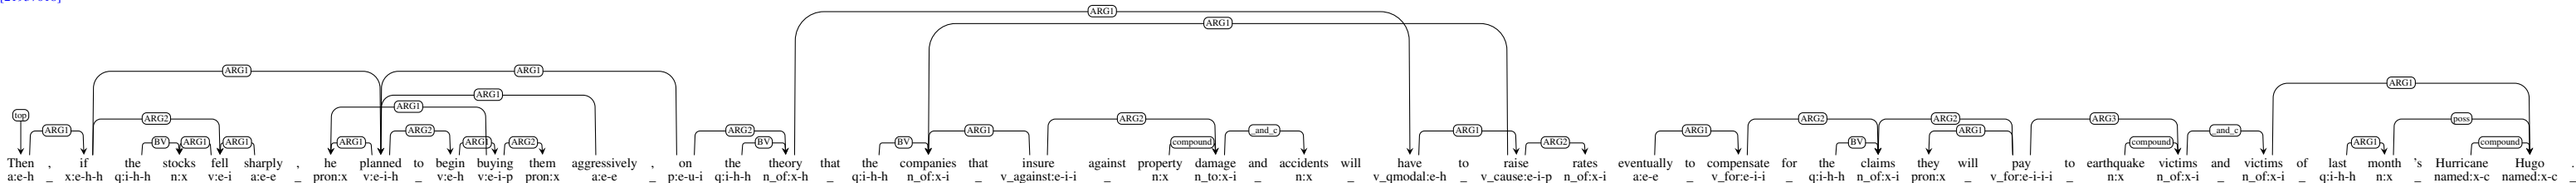

[21937016]

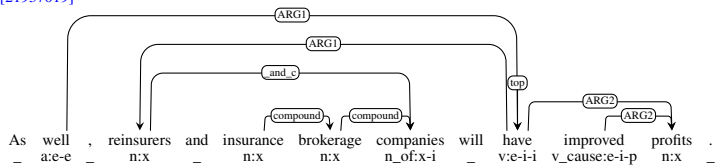

[21937017]

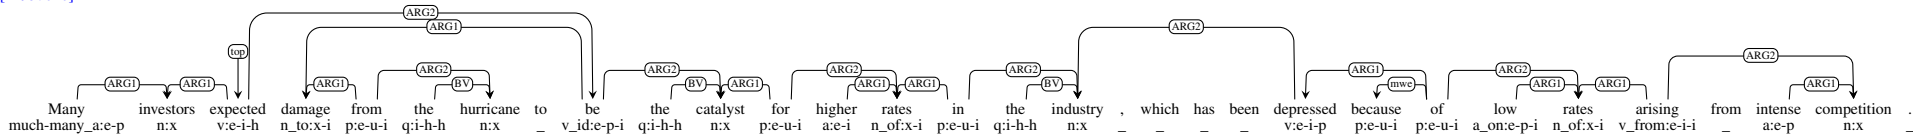

[21937018]

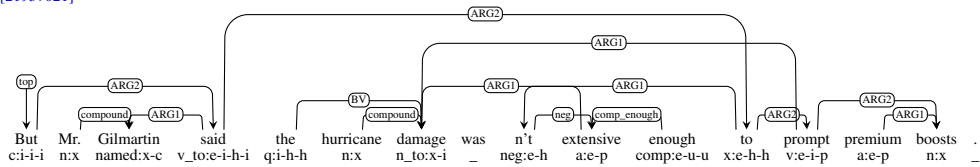

[21937019]

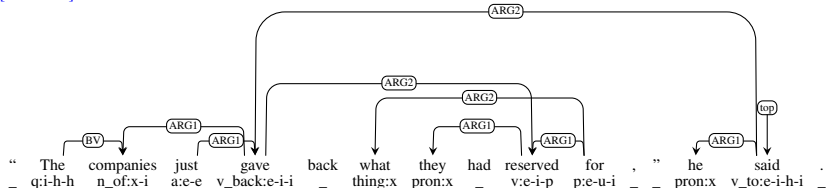

[21937020]

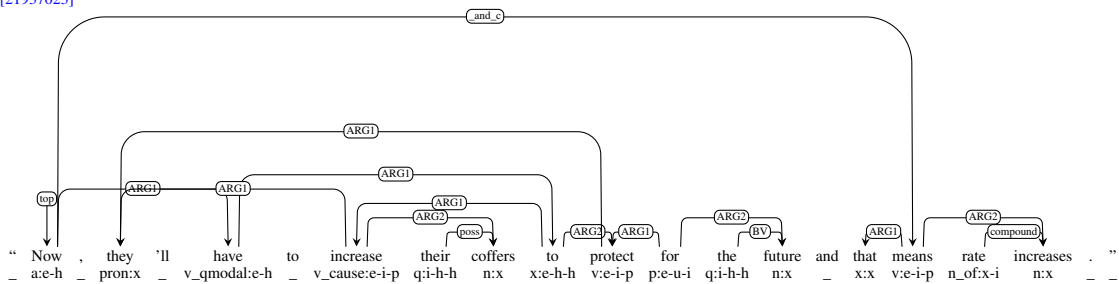

[21937021]

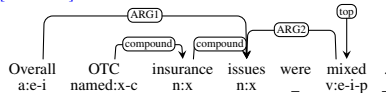

[21937022]

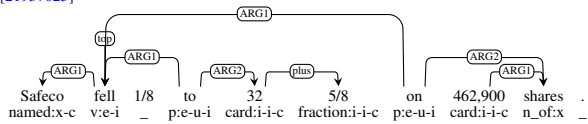

[21937023]

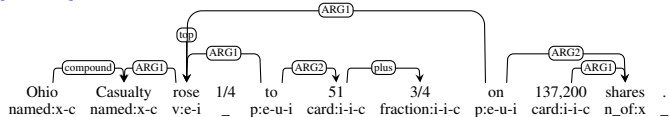

[21937024]

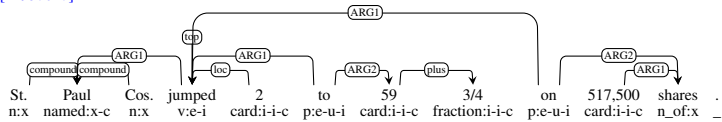

[21937025]

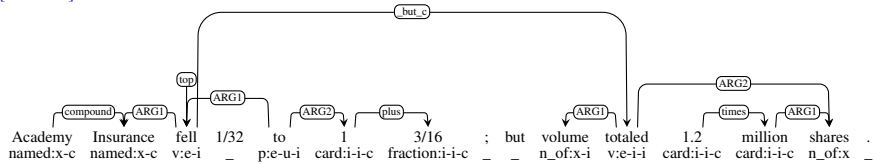

[21937026]

[21937027]

[21937028]

[21937029]

The Nasdaq Insurance Index jumped 4.15 to 529.32 on the day, while the barometer of big insurance and banking issues climbed 1.72 to 455.29.

[21937030]

Investors expect SunGard Data Systems, a company that provides disaster recovery services for computer-dependent businesses, to profit from the earthquake.

[21937031]

SunGard's stock rose 1 3/4 to 21 1/4 on 194,000 shares.

[21937032]

Shares of Kaser, a California road and bridge builder, were heavily traded, jumping 2 1/8 to 9 7/8 on 1.3 million shares.

[21937033]

Guy F. Atkinson added 7/8 to 16 7/8, on 335,700 shares.

[21937034]

The company, based in San Francisco, provides industrial infrastructure engineering and construction services.

[21937035]

Traders were initially nervous about shares of companies, including many leading OTC computer companies, such as Apple Computer with offices in the vicinity of the area damaged by the quake.

[21937036]

But most of those stocks fared well.

[21937037]

Apple Computer gained 1 to 48 1/4; Ashion-Tate rose 3/8 to 10 3/8.

[21937038]

Intel also added 3/8 to 33 7/8.

[21937039]

But Sun Microsystems slipped 1/4 to 17 1/4.

[21937040]

Shares of biotechnology companies in the area were also higher.

[21937041]

Chiron was up 1/2 to 27 and Cetus gained 1/2 to 16 3/8.

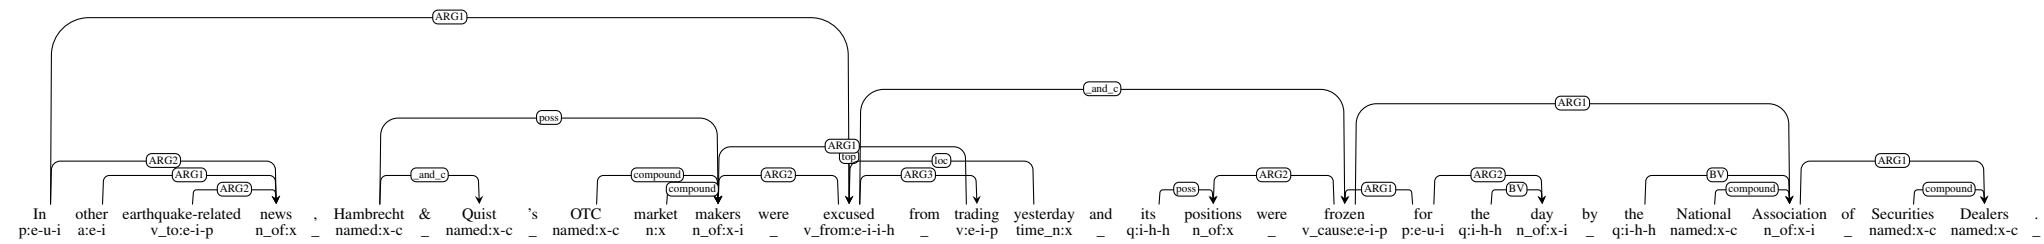

[21937042]

The stocks of computer-related companies located outside California improved, too.

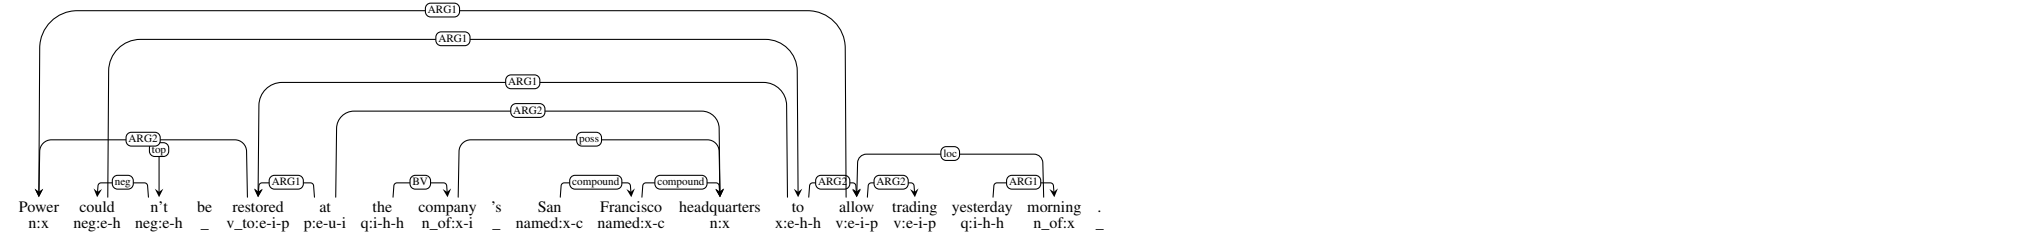

[21937043]

Microsoft advanced 1 1/2 to 80 1/2 and Lotus Development added 1 1/4 to 32 1/2.

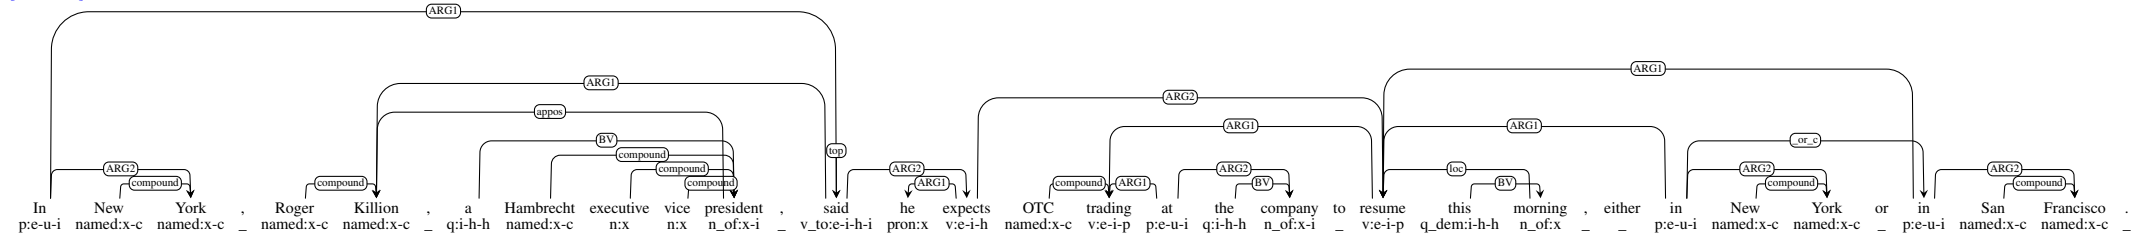

[21937044]

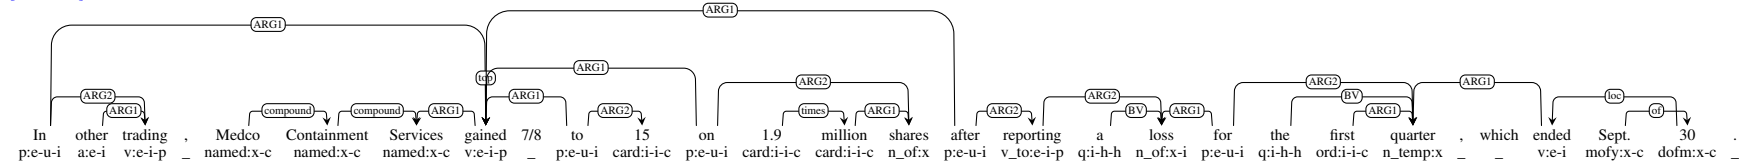

[21937045]

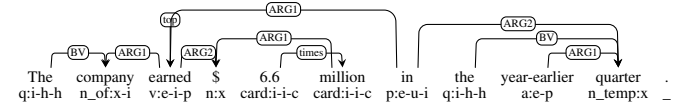

[21937046]

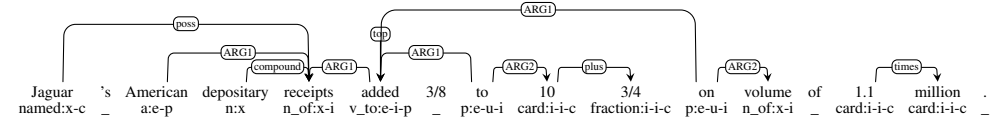

[21937047]

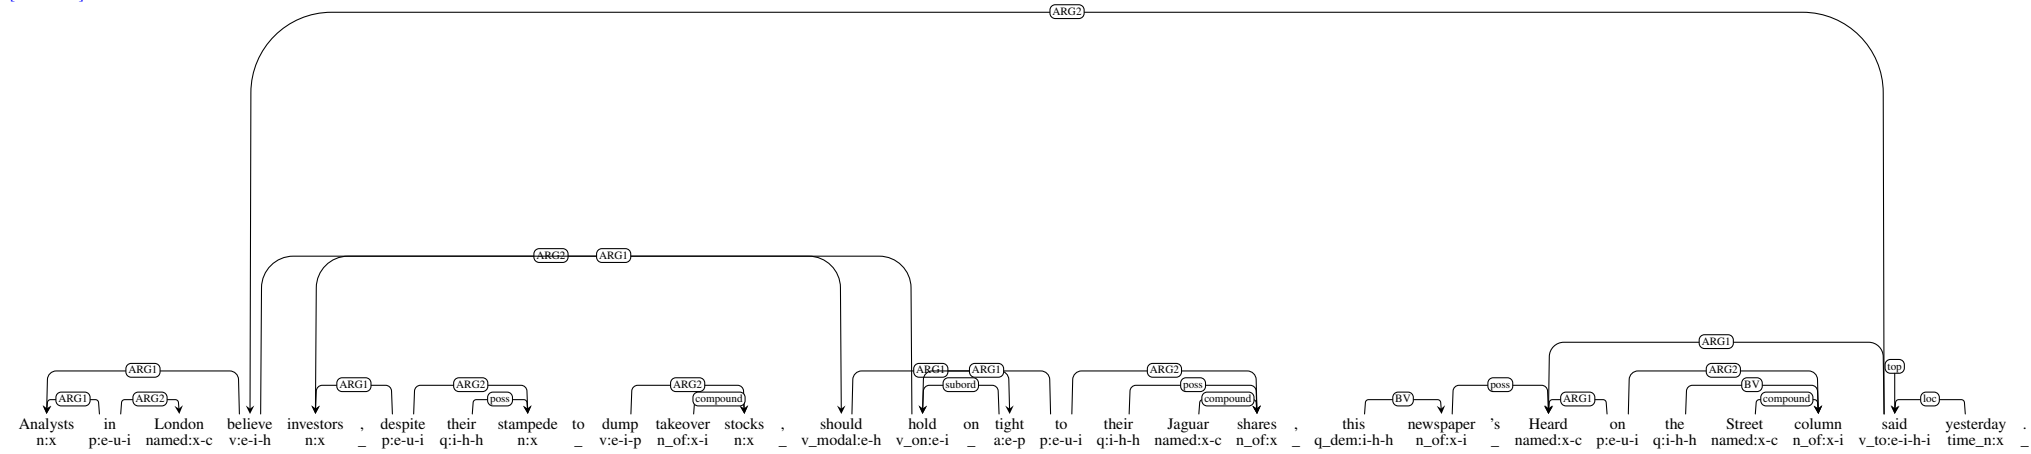

[21937048]

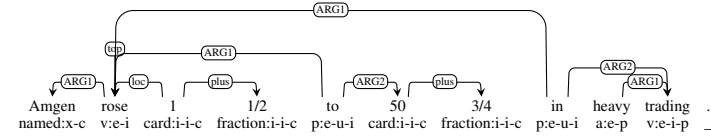

[21937049]

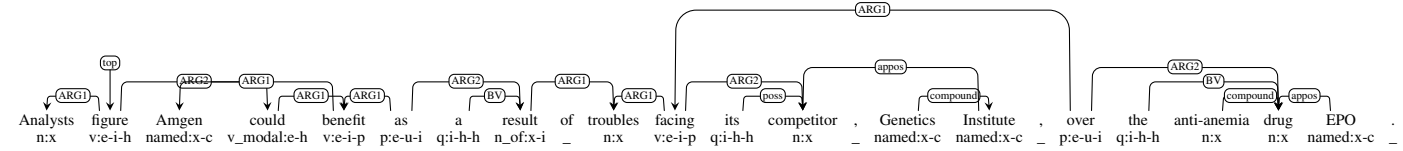

[21937050]

[21937051]

[21937052]

[21937053]

