Document 0245

```
(TWHEN)
                            (ACT-arg)

(PAT-arg)

(PAT-arg)

(PAT-arg)

(PHR-arg)

(OPHR-arg)

(oke 's eagerness to have a hand
                                                                                                       RSTR
                                                where Coke will be focusing much of its attention for years to come ev-w1374f1 ev-w590f21
                                                                                      an economic and demographic gold mine
That 's ev-w218f5_u_nobody
           S such as Taiwan , South Korea and Singapore , economies are growing , resulting in a rise in disposable income that consumers can use for soft drinks .
                                                                                          es have growing proportions of youths – the heaviest consumers of Coca-Cola and other sodas .
                                                                 , the Pacific Basin countries have
                                   ACT-arg
                                                                               LOC—
              however , Coke has typically taken ev-w3310f70_u_nobody companies in the U.S. and overseas , Coke has been able to improve ev-w218f2 _ _ ev-w1668f2 [20245012]
Coke has tended to increase its control when results were sluggish in a given country .
[20245013]
                                                                                                                        Soft-drink consumption rate – a key indicator of Coke 's success in a market
[20245015]
```

