                  that any Khmer Rouge participation would have to be "minimal".
The State Department says that Nicaragua 's Sandinistas came into Managua as partners in a coalition government with anti-Somoza moderates
