```
Document 1192
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                prompting many analysts to slash earning projections for the rest of the year by as much as one-fourth .
                   And they say the outlook for 1990 is nearly as bad .
                   [21192006]
                                                                                                                                     ACT-arg
                                                              ACT-arg)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   APPS.member
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                LOC
                           Airlines in 1989 " came in like a bang and are going out like a whimper , " said Kevin Murphy , an airline analyst at Morgan Stanley & Co . ev-w2833f1
                       Now , many airline companies might become ev-w225f1 a lot less attractive as takeover targets on Wall Street .
                                                            wrn also raises question

ev-w2481f4
                                                                                                                            questions about the carriers ' ambitious orders for new airplanes , which currently total $ 32.5 billion over the next three years .
                   [21192010]
                                                        weeks airlines have cut numerous fares in leisure markets to try to win back customers .
                                       Previously , airlines were limiting the programs because they were becoming too expensive .
                   [21192015]
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         ACT-arg
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  ACT-arg)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              ACT-arg
                   The industry 's slowdown became apparent this month when AMR Corp. , parent of American Airlines ev-w225f1
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             RSTR (SSTR)

RSTR
                Yesterday , it provided the details :

_ _ _ ev-w2424f1 _ _ _ _
                   [21192018]
                                                                                                                  ACT-arg
                                                                                 PAT-arg
                                                                   (APPS.member)
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 (APPS.member)
                     (REG)

(R
                                                                                                                                                                                                                     RSTR RSTR APPS.me(RSTR) Ontrasted with net of $ 68.5 million , or $ 1.58
```

_

